A book to create a profound sensation—Mirra.

RUTH HALL—By FANNY FERN.

Price 50 cents.

We READ IT THROUGH LAST NIGHT, EVERY PAGE OF IT! (Baird Patent.)

Fanny Fern's new book is making a sensation. It is very evident that every one who reads it, will tell how he reads it. I had been traveling two successive nights when I received the book (Hath Hall), having had no sleep, but such a load I could catch in the night. I was up at 4 A.M. and went to bed again at 11 P.M. by a long night's rest; but we were well before I was ready to jump into bed. I thought I would take a peep at the book to see how it "started." Soon I found my self laughing again crying. I lay down again, and slept. Lighted candle, I had just dozed, and with candle flickered, went on. Up I went again, and again lay down, and again the candle flickered, went on. I had come in contact with a sharp pointed hedge. In his head I had come to my mind, and the other understood to ward off hedge. I pursued my search, and was successful. Then wending my way through the country, I saw a tiny star in the sky, and in finding, "down stars" concluded another candle, and resumed reading. The town clock seemed to strike every fifteen minutes, until in the morning I found myself at the end of the book, and in the middle of the night sleep. This is that my opinion of Ruth Hall!

THE LIFE OF HORACE GREELY. EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

BY JAMES PARTON.

12mo, cloth, 450 pp., illustrated. Price, $1.25.

This is a full, complete, and reliable biography of this remarkable man, prepared by a man who has personally known him only since his death, by one who distinguished himself in his service, has visited every place where his hero has resided, and obtained the most minute information from the most reliable sources. It is not a mere "wooden voice," but adds to the charm of truth the fascinations of a novel. Every page is a masterpiece of prose, the most interesting biography I ever read.

A number of illustrations, including a full length Portrait of Horace Greely, &c., and a sketch to the book.

"I have perused GREENLEY'S life with unusual interest, and enjoyed it so much, persons knowledgeable of the man and his character are presented to the public with great distinctness.

"I have five young prints in my office, all rather intelligent fellows, and I can think of no more useful, appropriate, and interesting present than a copy of Parton's Life of Greenley's life to each. You will please, therefore, and give me copies by express."
